GRAPHIC FUTURES: 1981-2024

Beth Mount has practiced the art of person-centered planning with thousands of people with disabilities and their families from every walk of life and from every corner of the world. Her groundbreaking work related to Personal Futures Planning promotes the positive futures and images of people with disabilities throughout the globe, and demonstrates that all of us count and all of us fit somewhere.

Beth is the Founder and Director of Graphic Futures, designing consultation, facilitation, organizational development, the social arts, and policy analysis for a variety of local, state, and national agencies and innovation projects seeking to demonstrate the values, practices, and innovative policy initiatives related to person centered planning and development.

This resume provides an overview of continuous consulting contracts and a listing of publications, videos, art exhibits, and artworks related to Person Centered Work.

Person Centered planning ideals and initiatives are widespread throughout America, Canada, Europe, Australia, Latin America and India. Publications by Beth Mount have been translated and taught throughout Latin America, the European Union, China, Japan, Russia, and Israel. Many publications, documents, and video links are available to download from www.bethmount.org or to purchase from www.Inclusion.com. More than 600 academic citations can be found here.
